Our Mission

To share the fullness of the Gospel to all we encounter in our lives by equipping disciples to create and strengthen a personal relationship with Christ. By the grace of God, we are called to strive for personal holiness, participate fully in the vibrant life of the Church's Tradition and transform the world.

Are you new? Welcome! We are grateful that you have come to our parish and hope that you will soon call this faith community your home!

Dear Parish Family,

In late January of 2021, at the height of the pandemic, I lost my dad to COVID-19. I had watched him decline steadily over several weeks' time through a string of spotty FaceTime calls and a close watch on his patient portal through the hospital system. In the end, following what felt like a million unanswered prayers, I said the hardest goodbye I've ever had to say through my sister's cell phone screen, my broken body holding me captive in my home against my will yet again.

The hole left in my spirit in the wake of his unexpected passing was deeper than words can describe and the silence without him on earth to advise me was deafening. The unfathomable loss was compounded exponentially by the unavoidable fact that my sick body was the reason I wasn't there for him. By that point, I had already missed three of my siblings' weddings, one of my sons' First Communion, another son's graduation, and a list of countless other special events throughout the years, all while pleading with God to heal me just enough that I could be present in person for anything at all. To be missing this on top of everything else was just too much to bear. It was the proverbial straw that broke the camel's back, and it made my previously well-endured suffering crash down over me like a house of cards.

I was Boo Radley from To Kill a Mockingbird, watching life from my window, out of sight, never getting to interact much in day-to-day happenings outside of my home. I was Quasimodo, exiled to the bell tower of Notre Dame, wishing I could get past my physical limitations and find a way to be part of the world around me. Those physical limitations were constantly standing between me and the "real life" I longed for and for the most part, I felt pretty useless. Around the time my dad got sick, I was already overwhelmed with chronic symptoms. I was unable to walk more than a few feet on my own without beginning to pass out and my nervous system was such a mess that it couldn't even regulate my body temperature properly. There were only about ten foods I could tolerate and I was so sensitive in general that I couldn't handle simple things like being in a room with certain types of lights on or letting sun touch my skin without dire consequences. I was relying on wheelchairs, shower chairs, specially-timed medications, and gadgets like blood pressure monitors and pulse oximeters to get me through each day.

The news of Dad being put on a ventilator alone landed me in the hospital so it was no surprise when the day of of his funeral found me stuck lying flat on my couch, so sick that even crying for a moment was sending my heart rate higher than 150 beats per minute. I couldn't sit up, let alone walk with my family down the aisle of a church behind my little brother carrying a marble urn of what was left of my dad's physical body. It was excruciating salt in the tender wound in my spirit to be so far from the people I love most on that hardest of days. I sat holding my cell phone in trembling hands, the live feed of his funeral Mass playing on it's tiny screen, listening to the priest tell story after story about how my dad touched lives. I couldn't stop thinking of all the ways he touched mine. As I watched, I oscillated between hurling unfounded blame at myself for not being able to will myself to health and tearfully asking, like Jesus did on the cross, "My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?"

act of spiritual communion

If you are unable to receive Holy Communion for whatever reason, make a Spiritual Communion by reciting the following:

My Jesus, I believe that You are in the Blessed Sacrament . I love You above all things, and , and I long for You in my soul. Since I cannot now receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart, as though You have already come. I embrace You and unite myself entirely to You; never permit me to be separated from You.

new spotify channel for sacred music

St Augustine said, "He who sings, prays twice." Sacred music is an integral part of the divine liturgy, not just a nice add on. The active participation of the faithful in the Mass and other offices of the Church means that we all sing as part of what we offer to God. We have a lot of English and Latin that we sing here at Prince of Peace. In an effort to encourage everyone to learn as much of the repertoire as possible that we sing here, we now have our own playlist on Spotify. This is a great way to get this music and the texts in your ear as you are doing things around the house or even driving around!

 Go to Playlists on Spotify and type in Sacred Music at Prince of Peace and like it (or, follow this direct link)

become a catechist

We are in need of lead catechists, classroom assistants, and substitute catechists. Student volunteers grades 9th-12th are always needed as assistants and can earn community service hours for high school by filling these positions.

2nd annual charity golf tournament

The 2nd annual Charity Golf Outing benefitting Prince of Peace Catholic Church & School and St Rafka Maronite Church is Monday, 19 September 2022 at the Cherokee Valley Golf Club in Travelers Rest!

- The Cause: The first annual event raised $48,790 in donations from 24 sponsors and 84 golfers benefitting a Phase I security upgrade on the Prince of Peace Catholic Church & School campus and a General Building Fund for St Rafka Maronite Church. Money raised this year will be used to continue these important security and building projects on both campuses.
- About the Club: This thoughtfully sculpted course gives golfers a masterfully designed layout with dramatic drops and rises, and incredible views of Glassy Mountain. The 18-hole, 6,728-yard, par 72 course was designed by P.B. Dye and delights golfers with scenic water features, championship greens, and meandering fairways that grant new challenges with every round. Best of all, this is a course that lets you have fun no matter what your age or level of play.
- Event Details: I la Registration, I2n Tee Off, and 5p Buffet Dinner with Silent Auction and Prizes.
 - Join for the entire day or come just for dinner!
- Cost: $125/golfer or $500 for a team of four includes golf, cart, balls, dinner and gift. Dinner only is $25/person.
 - Registration for golf and/or dinner is now open on our website.

- Sponsorship Levels: Levels range from a "Hole Sponsor" at $1,000 to a "Master Sponsor" at $4,000 with associated benefits.
 - Sponsorship is only available by contacting event organizers.

Guest Writers Series: Jennifer Pfaffl on Suffering An Extraordinary Parish for Ordinary People

Guilt, grief, loneliness, and fear took turns washing over me in waves while my reality stared me steadily in the face in a way it never had before. How could a loving God let me get to the point that I was so sick that I couldn't even go to my own father's funeral? And why? What was I doing wrong? Was I not praying enough? Not doing enough? Was there a formula to unlock the mighty heart of God that I was missing? It seemed there must be. I had watched numerous people around me experience the healing they sought while I remained disabled and homebound, feeling like I was perpetually on the outside of everything, in what felt like a nightmare version of Dr. Seuss' "Waiting Place".

The truth I kept banging into then was the same one I'd been running up against for years prior while climbing the various hills and mountains of my long illness. The unchangeable truth was that no matter how much I wished or hoped for certain things, I couldn't always make them happen. There were things I just couldn't do on my own. More frustrating than that was the fact that I couldn't push God's hand or charm him with my good intentions and beautiful promises to make them happen either. What are we supposed to do when it's midnight in Gethsemane and we're sick and scared near the depths of despair, unable to see the forest for the trees, while the world keeps turning all around us? How can we still feel cherished and held during times when our souls cry out to a seemingly silent God, telling him what we think we need, and we feel our prayers echoing back over and over like a gong against heaven? What should we do when the healing we hope for so desperately doesn't come and it feels as if our supports have been knocked out from under us?

I know what my dad would say. He would say, "Float". He'd always tell me when I was overwhelmed by life and didn't know what to do, to just picture myself lying on my back on top of water, not trying to tread water, not trying to scramble to find the shore, but just floating until God sends a life raft. For a while after my dad died, "floating" was about all I could do. Some days my floating was just leaning on the suffering psalmists, repeating their words in my mind when I couldn't find my own, "How long, O Lord? Will you utterly forget me?" (Psalm 13:2).

Sometimes the only prayer I could manage was one word alone: "Jesus". I looked to the saints who continually reminded me of the importance of leaning on the wisdom of those who have gone down this road before me. When I'd begin to feel I wasn't doing enough for God, not handling the weight of the cross he had entrusted to me, he'd send words like these through one of his saints, and it was balm for my sinking spirit: "One must not think that a person who is suffering is not praying. He is offering up his sufferings to God and many a time he is praying much more truly than one who goes away by himself and meditates his head off." I usually do feel like I need to be meditating my own head off to receive God's favor, but I have found Teresa of Avila to be right.

Sometimes merely living out my suffering and getting through the day, often in tears, is all I can do, but I'm finding it really is enough to God. I humbly gift those tears to Jesus. They fall down my cheeks like raindrops while I try with everything in me to keep my face turned toward God, who is my sun. There are times it seems like clouds are blocking his beautiful rays and I can't feel their warmth, but somehow my soul always knows that he's there. Like a tulip, I find my-self bending towards the light that I know exists outside the windows of what can often feel like a four-walled prison. I find that the more I turn and fall to my knees in front of Jesus like the man in Mark 9:24 saying, "I believe; help my unbelief", the more the life rafts appear from him on the water. In whichever forms those rafts come to me, each anchors me to my creator, each one helps me stay afloat just long enough for the next to come along.

Like Peter, I have found that I start to sink when I stop trusting God to hold me up on the water, and trust is hard to come by when you've experienced loss. I have found that God sends others with life rafts for me and I have to humble myself to let them be his hands reaching down to me. I have never been good at asking for or receiving help and any time I'd needed help in the past, I'd usually turned to my dad who was suddenly no longer there. When he died, I found myself withdrawing into the suffering alone, pushing away others' offers to help me. I didn't want anyone to see my weakness and I certainly didn't want to be anyone's burden.
